Become part of this history

The history of Meir Palace takes us back to the mid-18th century when the wealthy merchant Johan Alexander van Susteren commissioned the construction of his dream palace on the Antwerp Meir. After him, Napoleon Bonaparte, King William I of the Netherlands, and multiple Belgian monarchs adorned and shaped this impressive building. Together with some of their renowned guests, including Tsar Alexander, Queen Victoria, Winston Churchill, and the Shah of Persia, they actively contributed to the beautiful history of this city palace—a history that still resonates today.

05 HISTORY

Today, this valuable heritage site is managed by the heritage organization Herita. As the National Trust of Flanders, Herita restores monuments and gives them a new future, together with members, volunteers, entrepreneurs, and donors.
